ABSTRACT

A system facilitates the visualization of a network having multiple nodes. The system collects information from at least one of the nodes (510). The information describes network operation over a period of time. The system then reconstructs the network operation for the time

5   period from the collected information (520) and presents the reconstructed network operation to an operator (530-550).